Book Series Follows Families through American History

The third book in the Diane McAdams Gladow series, A Journey of Voices, named The Builders, goes back to the beginning of the McAdams family name in the 1400s.

Gladow's A Journey of Voices series begins with book one, A Journey of Voices: Chasing the Frontier, progresses to Stewards of the Land, and now continues with The Builders, tracing common, ordinary families' movement through many generations using their letters, pictures, land documents, Bible records, and connections to American history.

The Builders allows the reader the opportunity to revisit many of the great watermark events of American history and goes further back to the early history of Scotland. From old legends to tales of adventure and survival in immigrating to a new country, to the horrors of war, to struggling with and overcoming poverty, to life in small town America, the stories abound to help the reader understand what living history really meant.

Diane McAdams Gladow is a former English Composition instructor at Emporia State University, also managing the English Department Writing Center and Grammar Hotline. She headed the Emporia Literacy Program as well for many years. She has authored three other books, one a memoir of her husband's family, Rich Heritage, and the others being the first two installments of the A Journey of Voices series.

A Journey of Voices: The Builders is available in softcover (ISBN 978-1-62137-956-0) from Virtualbookworm.com, Amazon.com, and Barnesandnoble.com.
